Eons ago, before money was created to serve as a medium of exchange, humans traded goods by bartering for products of similar value. Bartering was inherently inconvenient because live products such as animals could not be divided into smaller portions so they could more easily be exchanged.

Origin and Evolution of Money - Banco Central Do Brasil

Origin and Evolution of Money: Barter. Money, as we know it today, is the result of a long process. At the beginning, there was no money. People engaged in barter, the exchange of merchandise for merchandise, without value equivalence. Then, a person catching more fish than the necessary for himself and his group, exchanged his excess fish for the surplus of another person who, for instance
